A Home Run for your Collection!

Yankees Pitcher, Spring Training

The Lynn Matsuoka Studio has special
Baseball Artwork offers for you

The studio's private Spring Training Portfolio is available at affordable individual prices. These original drawings and paintings of the Yankees (1987~89) and Phillies (1983) are available at modest individual prices. The original, collectable pieces by the artist whom Milton Glaser calls "probably the greatest living reportage artist", and George Steinbrenner called "my artist" as she worked on location at Spring training 1987 through '89, are available as a collection or individually only until the remaining collection as a whole is sold.

Prices range from $750 to $35,000. Commissions accepted.

Notes on the Spring Training Baseball Collection by Sports Reportage Artist Lynn Matsuoka

All artwork was done in oil paint and graphite line on various papers, using Matsuoka's famous signature reportage. All drawings and paintings in these collections were done on location at the Yankees Spring Training camp in Ft Lauderdale, 1987~89 or the Phillies training Camp in 1993. The artist was there originally with the Yankees on the invitation of Dave Winfield, who was an art collector himself. She remained there as George Steinbrenner liked her work and often called her "my artist". In 1983 Matsuoka was invited to work with the Phillies by one of the player's personal manager.

Please note:

These paintings and drawings have not been published, and the artist retains copyright and reproduction rights to all artwork unless a copyright agreement is made between the artist and the buyer.

The artist has never been and is not now represented by any gallery, art or business agent.
